“What undoubtedly led me to study Physiotherapy at UIC Barcelona, were the facilities and resources of the University. Having the privilege of being able to study anatomy with real bodies from the very beginning helps a lot throughout your degree. The practical classes in gyms are very comfortable because of the space, materials and especially the teacher’s help. The university takes care of its students by training its teachers to a high standard. The close relationship between teacher and student is wonderful. Thank you very much.”
