"I chose UIC Barcelona as my first choice as it offered a lot of variety during my degree. The curriculum offered is very broad. There are many branches to choose from as a student. What I like more is the way lecturers treat the student. There is a close relationship, and you have an advisor who can guide you in each decision you make during your university years."

"I chose to study the Business Administration and Law double degree because it opens up a huge range of professional opportunities. Apart from having an extensive grants programme, UIC Barcelona has a good selection of international agreements with other universities that allowed me to do two exchanges, one in California and another in England. I can also vouch for the close relationship between the lecturers and the students."

“UIC Barcelona is one of the few universities that offers the opportunity to combine two areas that at first glance, may seem very different from each other, but that in practice, are not so different. From my personal experience, I would highlight UIC Barcelona’s commitment to faculty-student closeness. I would highly recommend this double degree programme because of the experience it gives you, and the work distinction this double degree programme gives you.”
